THE MANY ATTRACTIVE FEATURES.

Those who Contribute to its Success by their Efficient Services --- A Scene of Beauty worth Visiting .-- Something there to Please People of all Tastes.

HE massive but rough old Busby building on Market street, north of the postoffice. last night betokened in no way the warmth and beauty inside.

One who ascends the broad stairs with the expectation of merely finding an excuse for giving money to a noble institution is amazed at the gorgeousness of the scene and the perfection of every detail. On every side the eyes are greeted with booths, brilliantly lighted and tastefully decorated, attended by bright-eyed maidens, waiting with cheerful smies to greet him. The entire hall is transformed into a temple of beauty. The roughened wall was covered with white muslin gracefully draped with lace curtains, festconed in smilax, with flowers on every hand. The posts are all gracefully entwined with bunting of different colors, while in the western end of the hall the Opera House orchestra discourse sweet music. The first booth on entering the hall is the fishing pond, which is the cause of a great deal of merriment as the numerous fishermen haul out their various catches. This is in charge of three mischievious misses, who but each hook smilingly, and show how to throw your line for a good catch. Nellie Devine, Emma Dakan and Nellie Black are merry trio.

The walls of the art and flower booth are covered with splendid pictures of the Bishop, Father Sullivan and others, all for sale; while the front is one mass of flowers. The ladies had already sold of flowers. The ladies had already sold over a hundred dollars worth of photographs with autographs on, before the booth was opened. The handsome picture of the bishop, with massive frame, is being contested for by seven misses in a spirited manner. There is also at this booth a gift from Mrs. Grover Cleveland, which is unknown. Gueeses are taken on this, the successful one are taken on this, the successful one getting the prize, whatever it may be. The ladies in charge are Misses Maggie Fallon, Maggie O'Kane, Emma Dusch, Josie Flading, Annie Lee, Rose Tucker, Fanny Reilly, Lilly Poe and Mamie Cavanageh

Cavanaugh.

The bishop's table is next. It is tastefully decorated. The ladies in charge are all dressed in black, with red waists, which makes a very pretty effect with white and green background. Fruits and candies are the articles on sale by Misses Etta Weitzell, Katie Jordan, Mamie Owens, Annie Dougherty, Maggie Doyle, Bertha Schuler, Ada Bosley, Mary Reilly, Lavinia Carroll and Kate Cameron.

Then there is the postoflice. Over the top of the general delivery window is the legend, "Cupid's Corner," and it is indeed well named, from the numerous messages of love and friendship that

They do a rushing business, and the letter carriers, Joseph Coniff and Frank Kearns, are kept busy collecting from the various mail boxes around the hall. A box of stamps is being guessed for here, the one coming nearest to get the prize.

Monsignor Sullivan's table is presided over by Mrs. M. J. McFadden, Mrs. Noble, Miss Nellie Sauvageot, Ida and Mamie Harrison. This is a spiendid place to linger and enjoy the refreshments served. The flower girls who sell rosebuds with charming grace are Messrs. Maggie Jepson, Eleanor Loecher, Annie Feeney, Eleanor Feeney, Ella Lanahan and Mamie Dorsey.

"Lady Bountiful" is an odd and attractive feature just to the left of the entrance. It is a big figure, with outstretched hands, in which you drop five cents, which dives down in her inexhaustible pocket and brings forth a prize. This may be a monkey on a stick or some other toy, with an occasional valuable prize. This is the source of a great deal of amusement for the eager spectators. Mrs. Woods is in charge of her ladyship.

Altogether the fair is a pleasant place to spend an evening. All the funds realized will be devoted to furnishing the new addition to the North Wheeling Hospita! Notwithstanding the inclement weather there was a large attendance last night, and all patronized the booths liberally. The music is not the least attractive part of the fair. It will be thronged this evening.

Policemen May Talk, but Mustn't Loiter.
The Council committee on police yesterday made a slight change in one of the new rules, namely, the one forbidding policemen to converse with one another, or with citizens, while on their beat on duty. The rule was changed, the policemen's tongues are allowed to wag at will, but they are forbidden to loiter about hose houses, police boxes and toll houses.

The section appointing the clerk of the police court as clerk to the committee, was changed to read clerk of the first branch of Council. The clerk of the police court has already as much work to do as he can well attend to, and it was also feared that the duties of police court and police committee clerks might conflict. Policemen May Talk, but Mustn't Loiter.

Captain Delbrugge had been asked, at former meetings of the committee, to give any suggestions he might have to offer for the improvement of the rules. Obedient to this request Captain Delbrugge had prepared several, and was on hand in his office last night awaiting a call from the committee. By some oversight the committee neglected to send for him, and adjourned.

They Were Not Indicted. There has been some talk about the work of the grand jury, and the fact that it did not indict any Sunday liquor sellors, gamblers, etc., while presenting a number of bills against women, has a number of this against women, has been commented on, there seeming to be in some quarters an impression that Chief of Police Delbrugge was to blame for the uneven distribution of its favors. The chief yesterday called the attention The chief yesterday called the attention of an INTELLIGENCER reporter to some of the things that have been said and printed on this subject, and then to the records of the police court since last February. In that time, in addition to the number of women that have been "pulled," there have been in the police court twenty-two cases against saloon keepers who sold liquor on Sunday, nine against people who keep gambling houses, and fifty-six against persons found in gambling rooms. Why these were not indicted with the others does not appear. What interested Captain Delbrugge was why he should be held responsible for not doing something which the records shows that he did do.

Mr. Downing Sick.

The heavy cold which marred Mr. Robert Downing's acting so badly Saturday night developed into something like the premonitory symptoms of pneumonia yesterday, and in view of the bad weather it was suggested by his friends that he should not try to fill his Bellaire engagement, especially as his leading man, Mr. Mosely, was far from well. He refused, however, to listen to any such proposition and The heavy cold which marred Mr. listen to any such proposition, and though he was in a physician's hands all day, he went to Bellaire late in the afternoon and appeared there last night in "Damon and Pythias." He said yesterday he would play there if he had to play Damon in an overcoat. He was tendered a banquet after the performance by the Knights of Pythias of Betlaire.

A Fugitive from Justice

Several days ago George Marlowe was sent to the workhouse after a series of petty offenses for which he had escaped punishment. There was such an effort to get him out on the part of his friends that Chief of Police Delbrugge had his that Chief of Police Delbrugge had his suspicions aroused, and 'knowing that the man had lately been at Massilon, Ohio, he telegraphed there, and yesterday received word by telegraph that Marlowewas wanted there for attempted rape, and asking that he be held till an officer could come after him. Capt. Delbrugge went before Squire Arkle and swore out a warrant for the man as a fugitive from justice, and in default of $500 bail he was sent to jail by the squire. He denies all knowledge of any such crime. such crime.

To Punish the Mutineers.

The prisoners in the city workhouse were again taken to the Virgilant engine were again taken to the Virgilant engine house yesterday to clean out the cellar, and again refused to work. They were then taken back to the prison, and Superintendent Rodenbaugh ordered them put on a bread and water diet until they consented to obey orders. It was expected that as soon as this order was put in force the men would kick off a board from the side of the workhouse and take a walk. The inclement weather of the night probably induced them to wait a more convenient day, however. wait a more convenient day, however. Somebody Stole the Tools.

Somebody Stole the Tools.

In the past few days there has been great complaint of the stealing of brick-layers' and stonemasons' tools from various buildings in progress of erection, notably the city electric light plant and the new county jail. Some of the tools were pawned with Gibbons & Marnole, the auctioneers, in the of the tools were pawned with Gibbons & Marpole, the auctioneers, in the Fifth ward, and their description of the man who left them there tallied so closely with a man who was suspected of the theft that yesterday Chief of Police Delbrugge arrested the man, George Deiters, a bricklayer. The man who had bought the tools said he was not the man who sold them, however, and as there was no other evidence against him, he was dismissed. The man who pawned them said he was about to go south, and as Deiters had said he was was going south suspicion was directed to him. It may have been that the thief had heard Deiters say this and so made that excuse for wanting to sell his tools. ing to sell his tools.

Catarrh

Is a complaint so common that comparatively few people are entirely free from it, so insidious that it gains a firm hold almost before its victims are aware of its presence, so dangerous as to seriously threaten the general health, and liable to develop into bronchitis or Consumption.

It is a mistake to consider Catarrh merely a lo-cal trouble. It is unquestionably a disease of the blood, and therefore the right way to cure Catarrh is to remove from the blood the im purities which cause and feed it. This is to be done by taking Hoods Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier, which effectually exspels all traces of poison and germs of disease. "I have been troubled for years with
